EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Georgios Georgiou serves as the Deputy Commissioner at the Office of the Commissioner of Electronic Communications and Postal Regulation (OCECPR) of the Republic of Cyprus.

He has more than twenty years of professional experience in Information and Communication Technologies (ICT), Information Security, IT Governance, Risk Management, and Digital Transformation. Throughout his career, he has combined extensive technical expertise with strategic leadership in highly regulated environments, contributing to the development, security, resilience, and governance of critical information systems.

Prior to his appointment at OCECPR, he served for almost two decades at the National Bank of Greece (Cyprus), where he held senior responsibilities in Database Administration, enterprise information systems, cybersecurity, regulatory compliance, business continuity, and the implementation of Oracle technologies and mission-critical ICT infrastructures.

In his current role, he contributes to the implementation of Cyprus' regulatory framework for electronic communications, supporting the development and application of regulatory policies in line with the European Electronic Communications Code (EECC), while promoting effective competition, consumer protection, secure digital infrastructure, technological innovation, and international regulatory cooperation.
