

Antonio De Tommaso

Antonio De Tommaso is director of EU and international affairs at AGCOM, the National Regulatory Authority for electronic communication, media and postal services in Italy.

He has a long-standing international experience, as member of many institutional bodies and projects in the field of electronic communications, media and ICT. In BEREC (formerly, in ERG), he chaired several working groups and he is now the co-chair of the Regulatory Framework Working Group. He is alternate member of the BEREC Board of Regulators and Management Board and member of the BEREC Contact Network.

He joined AGCOM on 1999, where he served in several positions; from 1992 to 1999 he had worked in in the private sector, as expert of telecommunications regulation and strategies.

He holds a doctor degree in law; he is author of several publications and articles in the field of electronic communications, media and ICT regulation and governance.