

Joel's Lovén contribution to the public consultation of BEREC IP-IC Draft Report

In general a well written report that aligns with previous BEREC and national telecom regulators findings and shows the importance and functioning of open internet regulations.

One thing that is missing in the report though is the potential dangers of market consolidation. How would tier 1 networks positions change with fewer operators in the markets, what would happen if smaller IPS and telcos gets swallowed up by the larges ones. What would be the potential issues of that and how would it impact both neutrality and their bargaining power against lower tiers, CAPs and IXPs.
